

Department of Biomedical Sciences and Veterinary Public Health
Section of Virology

Letter of recommendation

To whom it may concern

I have had Muhammad Abbas as Master of Science student in my lab, doing his Master of Science project during the last months. He finished his work late October 2010. He is an ambitious student and have good background having both Veterinary as well as now Master of Science in Molecular Biology. This is a unique combination.

He did a very good oral presentation of his work here and his written thesis is also of very good quality. As far as I can judge from his time here he is ambitious and hard working student. Initially he was not familiar with the techniques we use here, but was eager to learn. He fit also very well into a group of other students but can now also work independently after some supervision.

He is also a very nice person and therefore I can highly recommend his for PhD studies. If you need more information do not hesitate to contact me.

Mikael Berg
Professor in Veterinary Virology
Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences, Uppsala
018-674627
(Mikael.Berg@bvf.slu.se)